Every unit is the best of what you need. The studios and 1-bedrooms are very private: they're your lair, your domain. The 2-bedrooms are for people who want to entertain: you can have your own space, or have a dinner for six, or a kick-ass party. You want to look good, so the bathrooms and closets are especially big. The kitchen is more integrated. It's a great place to cook, but it's also multifunctional, with sliding covers to conceal the sink when you're not using it. Throughout all the apartments, adjustable lights and lowered doors create a sense of flow and flexibility. It's practical, but the space can be dimmed and shifted, so it's also about seduction and atmosphere. In all, the apartments employ a very targeted use of space.
